

PATHWAY

City of Destiny

PATHWAY is the vision for the first city of the new golden age. An 'intentional city' - intentional community meets private city - where 100,000+ people desiring to live in alignment with principles of higher consciousness can live in sustainably built communities together on a 100,000+ acre tract of private land.

The intention behind PATHWAY is to provide a baseline of healing, prosperity, and opportunity for all that encourages each resident's unique genius to emerge, fostering innovation that's not only technologically advanced, but also expands the evolution of human consciousness.

It is the first intentional community created at this scale with spiritually advanced principles of consciousness, without any religious or spiritual doctrine. Principles like equality, inherent human value, abundance, sacred reverence of all, and responding with love. Providing a safe, beautiful, and aligned home for the growing population of awakened ones.

A collective mass of people from around the world living in one concentrated area with the same intentions of harmony, unity, sustainability, peace, expansion, and love. Such a collective focus of higher consciousness intentions in one place at one time will make a significant impact on the consciousness of the entire world.

PATHWAY is envisioned as a city in population size, but not built in the traditional city styles of building and street development. Homes will be built with innovative sustainable design in harmony with the beauty of the earth. Community interdependence and connection will be fostered with beautiful communal living spaces for playing, eating, and working.

Imagine sets of 10-15 sustainable earth-based dome homes sharing a communal kitchen, washroom, indoor lounge, and outdoor patio. And 10-15 of these little pods creates a community neighborhood of about 100-200 people, with neighborhood coworking spaces, park areas, and beautiful lounges. Then about 10 of these neighborhoods create a little village of 1000-2000 people, with a local council, communal gardens, and markets. And these villages form the structure of the overall "city" at large, eventually amounting to 100,000+ people. Sustainably created with expansive beauty and aesthetic harmony as driving values.

With this kind of population scale and unique way of living, the city becomes a test model for the future. Economic theories, new currencies, governance structures, dispute resolution models, communication channels, transportation methods, and more can be tested in conscious and sustainable ways for envisioning an ideal future world - what many call 'the golden age'.

The baseline of prosperity and opportunity for all is established with a unique residency model. The land remains privately owned by the city at large, the residents do not pay for their housing, nor do they commit to any contractual length of time for residency on the land or in any particular housing, allowing the freedom to move and exchange housing at will.

And the residents also do not pay for food. Building development, sustainable farming, and food distribution are operated by the residents, creating a completely self-sustaining system.

A wide variety of spiritually, emotionally, and physically advanced healing modalities will be available for all those arriving as new residents to the city, for any residents with the desire for healing, residents involved in disputes, or residents who struggle to abide by the communal values and principles of higher consciousness.

All other services are operated as a free market, except that there are certain values that the residents agree to upon moving into the city. Such as the value to not use plastic bags, packaging, or wrapping, or the value to not produce non-compostable waste, or the value that all production be ecologically sustainable.

In addition to the existing jurisdiction of the town/county/state/country the land is located in, governance is established by a contractual agreement with each resident who wishes to live in the city, with contractual conditions of the values for living, in accordance with principles of higher consciousness encouraging communal harmony, prosperity, and sustainable innovation.

And most importantly, this city is being created from a foundation of love and abundance, not fear. Which means every decision that is made in its founding, its creation, its development, and its growth will be made from an energetic vibration of love and abundance, fostering harmony within the city and harmony in collaboration with the outside world.

The greatest intention of PATHWAY is to eventually elevate thousands if not hundreds of thousands of people out of survival mode, systemic inequality, and scarcity consciousness, and into limitless possibility, abundance consciousness, and thriving prosperity.

FIRST STEPS

- > To raise $300 million for land purchase and initial phases of city development.
- > To purchase a tract of 100,000+ acres of private land for city development.
- > To recruit a team of experts, consultants, and developers to model city development.
- > To develop the city in stages, with slow but consistent population growth, in order to maintain the high frequency standard of living within the energetic container.
- > To eventually have the capacity for 100,000+ city residents.

Slowly growing the population with strong intentional foundations will allow a natural synergy and synarchy to emerge from the collective and be sustained through its expansion.

Slow but steady growth will also allow time for the higher consciousness innovation and genius that will emerge from such a high frequency environment to actually inform the continued development of the land over time into a true city of the future.

- > To determine foundational governing principles, sort of like a contractual constitution, that establish the baseline energetic frequency of living within the intentional city. Any person that wishes to become a resident of the intentional city contractually agrees to abide by these principles. And if at any time they no longer agree to comply, they will be required to leave.

WHO AM I

I am a former lawyer and ivy league law graduate, with experience in government policy, in the United Nations, and with many years in social justice advocacy. I've consulted on drafting a country's interim constitution, volunteered for an international criminal tribunal prosecuting genocide cases, drafted passing state legislation in the United States, analyzed multi-billion dollar state budgets, and directed multi-million dollar policy research.

My core values throughout my career have been consistent and clear. To uplift the systemically disadvantaged and socially vulnerable out of racist, classist, and financial inequality. To advocate for the protection of civil and human rights, and for equal opportunity for all. And instead of continuing to fight against broken systems, I've decided to create a new world based on equality, prosperity, and opportunity for all.

I also have a background being born into and raised until I was thirteen years old in a religious cult called the Unification Church. I know that intentional communities have historically had risks of transforming into abusive spiritual cults. I know that an intentional city at this scale has to be impeccable in its integrity of governance in order to prevent any such abuses of power.

I have always been an idealist at heart. And I also have a lot of real world, personal and career experience showing me all the ways that our world has failed to come anywhere close to meeting idealistic standards. But I truly believe that at this point in our human evolution, we are ready for this next step. There is a sufficient mass of humans ready for utopia. And deeply desiring it. I believe that all we need to do is build it, and they will come. Let's build it.
